There are too many pregnant women coming in to have babies, unfortunately seems to be Hispanic but I do not want to racially profile. They have no husbands or the fathers already have children with 2-3 other women and are not supporting any of them. They want their benefits to not work and support their children however often times they use the money on themselves. This culture dependency on Medicaid leads to resentment, neglected children and a continuation of a program that cannot sustain itself. Overpopulation in poor economies creates increase crime, drug and alcohol use.

no, thank you.

We have a large Hispanic community and we want and should be inclusive of all, but I also think it is fair to expect people who come here to live to become "american" and immerse in our way of life and that includes learning English as their language. When you look at the who level of immigration that occurred 150 years ago from Europe, the United States did NOT print material in Italian, Irish, Greek, Polish. Our language is English and those who chose to move here and become citizens were expected to learn it. Today, we are all so concerned about being politically correct and that no one wants to say anything against Hispanics. There is a high cost being paid society to print everything in both Spanish and English.

I did a research project for my MSN degree on obesity in the Chelan/Douglas county region and I found that there seems to be a lot of disparate and high level talk of assessing and improving the health and healthy environment of the community, but not a lot of implementation, awareness, or access by the community members it is meant to serve. I've been in healthcare in this valley for 30+ years; I should know and recognize a lot more than I do on the efforts to reduce obesity in our communities, so imagine what the non-healthcare folks don't see or realize is available to them. There is huge opportunity to assimilate the disparate efforts and bring the information and access to services and opportunities to the community members.

There is an unacknowledged drug and gang problem in this area - it is evident in the schools, in parks and trails, and in the retail areas - people are openly dealing and being aggressive toward people walking by. There is also a reverse discrimination issue in this town. The passive hostility exerted toward those who are not Latino is pervasive. We are reconsidering our decision to live in this community.

I have a limited view of the community actually. I have heard there is "drug" problem in the children. I had two shirttail relatives who had mental health problems. They died in the place where they were being treated. It is vague to me because, of course, we don't talk about it. I have the impression that us older and/or retired people are involved in health related activities. I can only hope it filters down to the parents and students. I like it here.

Difficult to answer these questions. I have no data--just subjective impressions

Not enough doctors so it takes forever to get in to see someone.

No

We have a huge drug problem. We also have a lack of access to dental health, if you are poor and an adult. If you are lucky enough to have state insurance, you have to go to Spokane to get dental work done, because no one here takes it for adults. Which is out of reach for a lot of people. There are also very few options for people in mental health crisis. They either end up in hospital for a few days, then are discharged back into the community, or they end up in jail, with NO treatment.

This comment may be better forwarded to a different department. A comment section would be good. As a health care interpreter, I've seen many CVCH patients completely lost in the L&I system. They end up at Confluence complaining that their doctors here "dropped the ball". They don't get referred to specialist they need. This is about 80% of the patients who say CVCH helped them (provider was CVCH provider). Your providers need better training on referring L&I patients or recommending they transfer care to occupational med.

I believe the majority of health problems are caused by the terrible commercial foods we buy at the store. In addition, most countries have some form of Integrative Medicine which means they combine Western Medicine with Alternative, natural herbal remedies as well. The doctors in Moses Lake scare me. Most of the time they have misdiagnosed medical issues I've had and all they know is how to throw pills at people to sustain their illnesses and disabilities. We're going backwards in care for the elderly. My father in law chose hospice care vs having to be placed in a facility on the coast. The Assisted Living Facility which is over 40 miles from his family, required him to private pay for 2 years before they'd except Medicaid. Mind you he was in and out of the hospital so the 2 year clock would restart if he lost his bed. He is not the only person I've known forced to face that decision.

Dental anxiety is a completely "forgotten" problem that many people have. We know we should go to the dentist but fear prevents us from going which in turn becomes problematic for the hospitals and much more expensive and results in a toothless population of people. Accessing dental care for some is not possible without sedation and none of the providers who accept Medicaid sedate. Seattle is the "canary in the coal mine", it is just happening there faster. We could be in the same position if drug abuse/mental health issues are not addressed effectively. Law enforcement needs support and empowerment (and I identify as liberal) The justice system here going the right way with drug court but more needs to be done in that direction. Incarceration not the only answer or the best way to deal with the mentally ill and/or drug users, it likely only worsens their problems and it is temporary and expensive. We have lots of places to exercise, hike, bike and work out and it is lovely here. But it won't matter much if we don't deal with these more serious issues.

I think the health of our community could be improved if more steps could be taken to encourage citizens to get out of their automobiles and walk or bicycle. There should be crosswalks at every intersection, marked for all four crosswalks, not just one. There also needs to be crosswalks between intersections, especially on North Wenatchee Avenue between Second Avenue and Miller Street. I know opioids and mental health are major issues, but I also feel that people who really need help get subpar care because they are labeled as addicts/crazy when they are in fact, not. The CWH ER is a major offender of this.

I think government regulations limit time doctors spend, creating mis/un-diagnosed issues recently I was in the er they had me there for almost all most 6 hours. There was 45minutes max of attention the balance of the time I saw no one, I was having trouble breathing so I was admitted. When the doctor did arrive after 6 hours he apologized for the delays that they are under staffed. There are far too many people in need of pain management and the necessary counseling to accompany it that are not getting the help they need. This leads them to buying pills. I have seen such transaction happen directly in front of my child at a park. I had to watch my mother have a Dr take away her pain medication when she had terminal bone cancer. I have had a chronic pain disorder for 24 years, all of this and no physician is willing to help with some sort of pain management; I'm told to take ibuprofen and Tylenol instead and then 3 months later told to stop taking ibuprofen and Tylenol because I'm taking too much. There HAS GOT to be wiggle room for these "rules" about not giving a chronic pain patient something for relief. The physicians simply choose not to listen because they're afraid of what will happen if they write a prescription for necessary pain management.

The cost of medical care is too high. They bill way, far over what insurance companies allow. The person has to pay the difference. You have to drive way too far to get adequate care as well. Affordability of Health maintenance

Health care should be seen as a right. We should not have to depend on the generosity of Confluence to ensure that affordable care is available to all our citizens.

I don't know any statistics but access to basic health care and mental health care and dental care would seem to prevent health expenses later. I'm also a proponent of adequate sexual education and access to birth control to prevent the need for abortion.

affordable healthcare

no

no

Better or healthier places to eat.

Access when you do not have a primary physician. Walk in clinics are not effective.

No

Mental health issues are an area that more access to inpatient treatment is available in our community..at the hospital a unit should be there with beds available and counselors and care 24/7 for emergency situations. I feel a lot of the suicides would be eliminated with this access in our community. Out patient affordable treatment is also needed with programs during the day ...with help for the indigent..a lot of homelessness and people who need a step up, a place that helps those in need. I've seen people with kids living in their car in a park nearby where I live. Community needs to pull together to help eliminate those types of scenarios when children are involved.

Quality health care for people in Okanogan County is fleeting and it is unsatisfactory for aging patients to drive 200 miles round trip to see a doctor in Wenatchee. Not acceptable.

Healthy, affordable food access is needed

Please hire an on staff plastic surgeon who will take Medicare--critical need.

Mental health assistance for people who can't afford counselors or need a support group is thin for men.

No

I work with drug addicts, primarily women. I can say that most don't want to be an addict but the resources/support systems are limited for low income and those services are not adequate. One month is treatment amounts to nothing. They require a holistic approach that includes: spiritual, physical, mental, educational, and medical at the same time for a very long period. What we are doing is not working.

Grant County really needs a mental health and drug rehab facility. It is sad to watch the number of people that have these issues. There are many in the Moses Lake area that need help but NO help is available. There are support programs but nothing that is a inpatient for drugs and there are Zero mental health facilities. Yes there are counselors and therapists but no mental health facility. This is a huge issue that seems to get swept under the table in this area while surrounding counties have these accessible facilities. Maybe people don't want to admit that these issues exist but this is what is making the community fail.

Liberalism is trying to make its way into our conservative communities and by doing that, it is changing the character of our nearby communities. I believe the style of liberalism is making them less safe. For example kids doing things like smoking marijuana because liberalism made it legal. Yet just years before fought to take out the big tobacco industry. I call that a double standard. Your survey should have mentioned the use of marijuana and the outlets for purchasing such and how one would rate that in a community? That is what you need to be doing a survey about, are family values changing and is that affecting health care?

For our mental health needs there is a strong need for more psychiatrists.

The access to emergency mental health care could be improved. A 24 hour suicide prevention program with it's own dedicated medical facility, ambulance, and psychiatric offices would be greatly beneficial for those who are too afraid to go to the ER or are facing crisis during non-business hours when their therapist may not be available. We need more than a voice on the phone when we are in crisis but it can be impossible to leave the house for help in the middle of an episode. Everything is terrifying. Having a safe destination can alter one's thoughts just enough to get past the impulsive need to self destruct. A goal. Get to the safe place. Talk to someone who can keep you from doing something irreversible. An ambulance could transport not only a patient to the facility, but also a counselor and EMT to the location of the patient if needed. The last thing a person with mental illness can handle is the stress of police and hospitals during a crisis. As a patient with life altering mental health problems and having attempted suicide myself... Having called the suicide prevention hotline multiple times only to get a busy tone or no answer at all in the middle of the night... having experienced the all encompassing feelings of helplessness and hopelessness and absolute isolation... knowing how drastically the lives of the person's family can change in the blink of an eye due to my stepfather's suicide just as I was becoming a teenager... I personally believe quite firmly that having trained medical and mental healthcare professionals available 24 hours a day in a designated safe place specifically designed for mental health emergencies could save lives. My boyfriend recently encountered a young woman with mental health issues who, during an episode, was confronted aggressively by the police and she was so terrified that she ran into traffic. This care facility could answer those calls and handle the situation appropriately, as they have experience and training in diffusing escalated situations. The police seem to always feel threatened by mentally ill people, but the doctors know better. Having a small team of counselor, EMT or nurse, and perhaps one police officer to defuse situations involving mentally ill people is a better option.

We have a shortage of care covers when it takes a month minimum to get an appointment. That's unacceptable.

We must come up with solutions for treating the drug addicted that live along the river, cause crime and foul our natural environments.

There seem to be currents of unhappiness and dislike for people not from Wenatchee. Residents blame other people for perceived hardships - immigrants, 'people from the west side', etc. Long time residents react poorly to new ideas, new people, new 'things', etc. Mentally, the community does not seem healthy.

Access to mental health is extremely limited for poor people. People most vulnerable to not be able to make it to apts due to finances, transpiration, mental and physical health are penalized by Columbia valley health. Even when they cancel their appointments well in advance. they receive multiple automated letter and phonecalls telling them they will lose scheduling privileges for a year. This is extremely detrimental to patients mental health and physical health as it increases stress and blood pressure.

Unfortunately, our local healthcare system's answer to the healthcare issues in our community seems to be medicating their patients. This community needs to come together. Not just as citizens, but clinics need to work TOGETHER. I lost my child to suicide in grant co. There is limited access to therapist, so the wait lists are outrageous. The schools need training on mental health, not just the counseling office-the entire staff. Come together as. Community to teach our population, youth and adults alike, about mental health. Use this to FIX a system that is so flawed and broken my child fell threw the cracks.

I think there needs to be a better emphasis and education on personal accountability

It be nice if health care providers gave education about costs upfront; Having a child and getting hit wil a $10,000 plus bill for a normal delivery- (this is just one example)it would be better to have these expectations upfront instead of in the end; it causes us to not want to go to the doctors because we feel blindsided by charges and have absolutely no idea what to expect, ever.

I also think one main factor besides low income being able to get medical treatment is the access to the right medications. Not talking pain or others people abuse but medication needed for a healthy life.

One healthcare facility taking over our area is not helping the health of in our area. In fact it is helping the decline in health as people feel they care more about money than the patients.

Infant formula use is a health concern and should be on the list of unhealthy behaviors. It might be my number 3.

We need a heavier focus on sexual health. This is an important part of prevention of preventable disease and infections that will improve the overall health of our region. Our unintended teen pregnancy rate is also higher that the state's.

For people to maintain their health, they have to have time and resources. Flexible work schedules, designed to increase exercise, would help with improved health.

homelessness

More mental health services are needed

It takes about 2-6 months to get into psych doctor for mental health medications. To see a counselor can be longer

I believe that poverty (especially for the "working poor" that make enough to be ineligible for Medicaid or Medicare) combined with high costs of living and accessing healthcare create unhealthy conditions that lead to unhealthy behaviors, habits and traumas. We must address both the cyclical drivers (e.g. achievement gaps, access to early education, affordable housing, affordable healthcare) and the side effects (e.g. environmental segregation, higher likelihood of teen pregnancy, higher likelihood of substance abuse, etc.) of intergenerational poverty to build healthier communities.

I think detrimental to health is children not getting early learning support/access.

Mental Health is only for those on Medicaid = shame for the first ranking I wanted to put other as first choice- I think having a community where walking and biking is a safe and convenient can improve health (See CDC's newest campaign)

There is nothing for mental health in this area. If someone really needed help like hospitalization they would have to leave the Wenatchee area, which is not good for them or the family. That is probably the biggest thing we are missing in Chelan County.

Would love a true city gym. Just left a town that had a city gym built from city funds, fundraising, donations, etc. It was connected to the YMCA so you could join as a YMCA member or gym member, but use both facilities. The gym had all of the usual gym offerings as far as weights and machines go, classes, a day spa, gymnasium, raquetball courts, tennis courts, an outdoor children's playground and splash pad, and an indoor pool area that included a lap pool, children's area, two waterslides, and a small lazy river. I also think an accessible and inclusive playground is needed. I haven't come across one that is wheelchair accessible for children using a mobility device to play with their peers.

Smaller more community based options rather than continuing to fund these corporations that become more money driven then wellness/compassionate based would make for a different world. A place where each patient is known and not just led around like cattle with over-generalized (cookie cutter) care. It is currently the exception to get good service not the expectations. Our current system is dis-compassionate, dis-empowering, and far to difficult to navigate. I think most people would rather give up, do it on their own, or find other options. It is heartbreaking. Especially with the amount of money going into healthcare in general.

Need more community based programs or access to resources
